Jews in U. S. Make Good Farmers

Dr. Gabriel Davidson, general manager of the Jewish Agricultural Society, has just issued a report showing that the Jewish farmers in the United States have benefited by the general agricultural improvement. The report deals with the work of the Jewish Agricultural Society in helping build up an American Jewish farming class.

In 1900 when the society was founded there were 216 Jewish farm families in the United States. Today there is a Jewish farm population approximating 100,000 and there are Jewish farmers in practically all of the 48 states.

Dr. Davidson points out that the society had granted up to the end of its last fiscal year 11,997 farm loans aggregating $7,392,000 to Jewish farmers in 48 states. The society, to quote from the report, "was pioneer in establishing a system of secondary mortgage loans." This financial service provides Jewish farmers with a source of credit not readily obtainable elsewhere. Farm loans are made on smaller margins of equity than are usually accepted by loaning agencies and their repayment is spread over a long number of years. There is no exaction of bonus or commission or payment of renewal charges. Says the report: "These loans are made for service and not for profit. . . . Were we to pursue a wholly conservative lending policy we would defeat the very purpose of our existence."

Through its farm settlement department, the society guides and aids those who desire to go into farming and guards farm buyers against fraud. To quote again from the report: "To Jews, farming means entrance into a brand new occupation and orientation to an entirely different mode of life. That is what makes it desirable that an agency exists to which Jewish farm buyers can turn for guidance." During 1936, close to a thousand people turned to the society for advice on farming possibilities. Several Jewish farm settlements developed in previous years have received fresh accretions. Last year the society was also confronted with the problem of handling increasing number of German refugees.

The society maintains an agricultural education and extension department. It publishes the "Jewish Farmer," the only agricultural magazine of its kind in America. To quote once more from the report: "Because of his loss of contact with the soil, the Jew needs a special type of service suited to his background, which no other agency, governmental or otherwise, can provide."

The society's farm employment department, "the oldest specialized farm employment agency in the country," affords young Jews the opportunity of acquiring agricultural training by actual work on farms. Since its establishment, 18,000 farm placements have been effected. This year positions were found for a number of German refugees.

Through its rural sanitation department, the society carries on work to promote higher standards of sanitation in and about the farm home. During the past year, 1,062 farm visits were made in the Jewish farming districts of New York. Through farm gatherings, public meetings, demonstrations and lectures this department has reached thousands of rural folk.

In concluding the report, Dr. Davidson has the following to say: "No report of the society's work is complete without a word on the broader significance of the society's effort. Settling a man on a farm, granting a farmer a loan, advising a farmer on his agricultural problems—all valuable services—are but means toward a larger end. That end envisages an ever growing body of Jews living on farmsteads and tilling the soil. In striving toward that end we believe we are rendering America and American Jewry a vital service."

The directors of the society are Reuben Arkush, Eugene S. Benjamin, Richard S. Goldman, Jacob G. Lipman, George W. Naumburg, Alfred Rheinstein, Francis F. Rosenbaum and Lewis L. Strauss.

Dog, Teacher's Pet, Refuses Promotion

A "CRUSH" ON TEACHER
Dynamite, pet collie who refused to be promoted with his master, gets a geography lesson first hand from his sixth-grade teacher, Ruth Beggs.

Decatur, Ga. (AP)—Higher education can go to the bow wows as far as Dynamite is concerned.

He has a crush on Ruth Beggs, sixth grade teacher.

His classmates say that is why he is a repeater in her class even though he has a promotion card.

At any rate, Dynamite refused to enter the seventh grade after he and his master, Forrest Jones, Jr., 12, were promoted.

That hurt Forrest, who had hoped Dynamite would go on and graduate with him.

Takes Old Seat
But when the school bells pealed last fall Dynamite started back to school and took his old seat.

Mrs. Roselle Martin, principal of the Ponce de Leon school that Forrest and Dynamite attend, considers the collie a model scholar.

She says there isn't a tardy mark to mar his record and that he obeys all the rules, even to falling in line with the children when recess and dismissal bells ring.

Arithmetic Bored Him
"We had to mark him 'unsatisfactory' in deportment one month," Mrs. Martin conceded. "He created such a stir when another dog followed one of the pupils to school."

Dynamite appears bored when the class is studying arithmetic and the like—but usually he is interested. Forrest says the dog "took up" with him three years ago and they have been pals ever since.

Carole Lombard says: "Advised by my singing coach, I changed to Luckies"

"In my new picture 'Swing High, Swing Low' I sing a song for the first time since I have been on the screen. To do this, I spent months taking singing lessons. And with this added strain, my throat was not in good shape. My singing coach suggested that when choosing cigarettes, I select a light smoke. And so I changed to Luckies. Since then I've found that a light smoke and my throat get along together just fine."

PASTOR WITTE GAVE ADDRESS ON RADIO

The regular weekly Lenten broadcast conducted by a group of Lutheran Churches in the Albany area over station WABY, Albany, every Tuesday at 5:45 p. m., this week brought to the microphone the Rev. E. L. Witte, pastor of Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church on Livingston street, this city.

He delivered a Lenten meditation entitled "Jesus the Shepherd." Many comments on the broadcast, which was clearly tuned in by listeners here, have been received. In the course of his address the Rev. Mr. Witte said, "The peaceful relationship between a shepherd and his flock does not seem to fit in with the current scheme of things. Mankind has grown up; we are no longer as sheep led to the slaughter, yet despite all the achievements of men they are palpably helpless in so many things. The best brains in the world hardly got to the fringe of the real problems that confront men everywhere. In all this confusion of life Jesus calmly assures men that He is the Good Shepherd of mankind, Whose Message is understood by disconsolate and weary souls."

NOT A NEW IDEA

It has been stated by "sources close to the President" that Mr. Roosevelt has been considering plans to meet the court barrier to his program ever since the NRA was declared unconstitutional nearly two years ago. The President, it is said, determined that the reforms which he believed the country needed could not be met by the states, acting independently, and that legislation from Congress was required. In order to make these acts constitutional several proposals are said to have been made to him for amendment to the constitution or "liberalizing" the Supreme Court. The method he now proposes to Congress is said to have been selected because it was the quickest and most direct. It is added that the various proposals were studied until after the election and the recent presidential message was the final result.

One may well wonder since the matter has been under study so long, why it might not have been good policy to refer it to the people in the recent campaign. Nothing so brings out the weak and strong points of proposed reform as ante-election discussions. But during the campaign of 1936 the New Dealers were strangely silent on the question of constitutional amendments and "liberalizing" the Supreme Court. Anti-New Deal orators frequently charged the New Dealers with designs on the Supreme Court. But the New Dealers themselves offered no discussion on the subject. Can it be possible that they didn't want to risk public discussion until the President was assured of his second term?

The question is an interesting one. Appeals and discussions on the radio are now being made by those who favor the court proposals. Why couldn't this have been done before November, 1936?

DEFENSE POLICY

"Our plan of national defense is all wrong," maintains Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, retired, speaking to a private military organization. "That is because it is organized for offense rather than defense. We operate on the notion that we must defend American interests no matter where they may be, when as a matter of fact it is our duty to defend America."

There was a period when most of us seemed to feel that "America" was wherever there were American interests. It was this feeling that led us to support aggressive action—which we usually called defensive—in countries quite a distance from home. In support of private business ventures or theoretical national interests. We had "spheres of influence" that we felt obliged to maintain by force, when statesmanship failed. We are less inclined that way now.

"There should be two ideas behind our national defense," says General Hagood. "First, never send the American army or navy abroad to fight; and second, be so strong at home that no country can make a landing in this country." He refers to air landings as well as sea landings, and wants to "build up air defenses to prevent the enemy getting here."

Most of us are not expert in such matters, but it sounds reasonable.

NATIONAL DIVORCE LAWS

A complicated case turned up in the Domestic Relations court in New York. A woman had gone to Mexico to obtain a divorce and had later married a second husband in Maryland. When she sued him for support, he claimed that the marriage was null and void because she was still married to her first husband. The judge agreed, but made his opinion a divorce on the ground of uniform divorce laws throughout the United States. He said:

The idea of state rights and the enforcement of state rights plays havoc with human relations in the newly national relationship of husband and wife, parents and children

All law pertaining to domestic relations should be enacted by Congress rather than by state legislatures. The nation is now an entity, and people who can move through the states so easily need uniformity in the law.

Marriage laws at present, he points out, are so varied in the different states that a couple may be regarded as married in one and not married in another and a child may be legitimate in one and illegitimate in another. This problem might be handled by the states themselves if they agreed promptly to adopt uniform laws. The suggestion has been made before. Perhaps something will be done about it soon.

SPANKING BROADCAST

Nearly everything audible gets broadcast nowadays, and the listening public is tolerant, but perhaps there's a limit. That limit, as discovered in Canada the other day, has nothing to do with what we ordinarily refer to as morale. It's a matter of sympathy for children.

The offending program consisted of a spanking performed at a public school in London, Ont. Listeners could hear, as they were meant to, the whack of the strap and the howls of the children. What offenses had been committed are not revealed, but the performance was explained as "an experience in school management." The school broadcast system enabled the pupils in other rooms of the big school to hear it, also the parents at home.

The results were rather devastating. Students all over the school, especially the girls, set up a howl that mingled with the howling of the victims. Then the parents and the school board got busy. The idea isn't really original in Canada. It was tried two or three years ago in a public school in a small Ohio town, and didn't succeed there, either. It might not work any better in a prison.

PREVENT TOOTH DECAY

An advertisement of the paint manufacturers you see in magazines, newspapers and even on outdoor sign boards is "Save the Surface and You Save All." And this is true regarding the surface of wood, iron and other materials.

Similarly there was a tendency a few years ago to apply this slogan to the care of the teeth: Save the surface (enamel) and you save the whole tooth.

However when dental research workers found that it was possible for teeth to decay notwithstanding that the enamel covering was apparently not broken, other causes for dental decay were sought, with the result that now dentists and physicians recommend the use of more leafy vegetables and fruits and less of starch foods and meats.

So popular has this idea of preventing decay of teeth by the use of leafy vegetables and fruits become that many adults—teachers and parents—are not so insistent upon having the children brush their teeth as they formerly were.

Now what about brushing the teeth and saving the enamel? Is brushing the teeth still an important point in preventing decay?

Dr. N. Kobrin in a radio address under the auspices of the Oral Hygiene Committee of Greater New York, said:

"The toothbrush must be classed as one of the valuable aids in the prevention of tooth decay. At the Dental College of the University of Pennsylvania Professor Appleton has done some fine research on the question of the number of bacteria (organisms) in the mouth following the brushing of the teeth. His study included several hundred cases. The greatest number of bacteria were found in the mouth in the morning immediately on arising. After the teeth had been cleaned the number of bacteria dropped 50 per cent; by the noon meal, bacteria had increased 20 per cent and dropped that much after brushing, increasing again before dinner to 75 per cent, after which the count fell 25 per cent when the teeth were cleaned."

This doesn't mean that brushing the teeth will prevent all decay but it does mean that the chances of decay will be just half as many if the teeth are brushed regularly.

Your dentist will tell you that just as some of us inherit the tendency to hay fever or other ailments, others may inherit the tendency to early tooth decay. We can postpone decay by brushing the teeth regularly and eating plenty of fruit and vegetables.

The Town of Notown Lives Up to Name

Westminster, Mass.—Notown, a community founded by Fitchburg, Leominster, Princeton and Westminster, as early as 1771 was fighting against the fate indicated by its name. It then was annexed to Princeton, but two years later broke from this union.

The isolated community failed to prosper, however.

All that remains now is the name—and a few abandoned farms and gaping cellar-holes.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: The sudden failure of the Southern Star Line puts Denny Carter's promised job in the discard and postpones his marriage to Eve Mannersfield. With a globe-circling honeymoon in sight, Eve had already given up her good job. As Eve's old house in Connecticut has just lost its tenant, she decides to leave there until she can rent it again. Eve's friends promise to come up to see her and slim, proud Denny—who still has his old job—promises to escort her out to "the willows."

Chapter Seven

Mitz To The Rescue

EVE's time at the office was up Saturday. Knowing they would find her at home after that, her friends called and telephoned all day. She hadn't realized how splendid they all were. They invited her to everything that could possibly take place before she was going.

"I think you're lucky, if you ask me," Marilyn consoled her. Marilyn had taken a taxi up from an apartment where somebody had sent her box seats for, to see if there was anything she could do. She lay across the left-hand divan, her long thin arms behind her head, watching Eve pack glasses in a barrel; her gray mole-skin coat, given her by Jane Dillon the rich artist, was thrown on the dusty floor and her 5-and-10-cent store felt hat carefully hung on the sideboard above her. "Think of walking straight into a summer place in Connecticut! I'll see that the crowd doesn't desert you. We'll all come out and see you when it gets warm enough."

"Oh, do!" "I suppose you've saved simply heaps of money," Marilyn went on. "I remember meeting you once trotting into a savings bank, and being eaten up with envy. We're such idiots about saving. If people weren't angels to us we'd have starved in a gutter years ago," concluded Marilyn happily.

Mitz entered, all perfume and mink and clattering heels.

ply, taking another water from the box beside her.

Eve straightened up for a minute and pushed a lock of hair under the rubber shower cap she was wearing, because it was the same color as her calico apron. "I think there's enough to carry me through the summer," she said, "though it does give me a sort of unsafe feeling to spend it. I admit."

"Oh, splendid! And in the fall you'll be back and we'll all celebrate."

Eve smiled to herself. She and Denny had worked it all out that very morning. They were going to get married the minute Eve got anything at all to do, no matter how little. There would be a long series of Saturday hunts for the right apartment. "And I'm keeping the list of advertisements we cut out the other day, just for luck," Denny had said. "We'll start just where we left off."

There was no use telling Marilyn that Mitz was a child, and always poured out everything to the next person she met. She had no secrets of her own or anybody else's, friendly childish, long-legged Marilyn!

A Small Fashionable Bear

THERE was a bang on the door, followed by an excited Denny and a complacently beaming Mitz, all perfume and mink and clattering heels, rather like a small fashionable bear.

"What do you think of this swell sport of a Mitz?" Denny cried. "She's lending you the house to take your furniture over to my flat to store. And has she a grand idea for selling me up the river?"

Mitz, thus introduced, smiled brightly, hugged Eve and Marilyn and waved to Ellen Walton, quietly pecking china in the corner. She was then established in state in the center of things, and they waited while she slipped off her white gloves, loosened her coat above a new navy crepe import and repinned her gardenias. She coqueted with Denny through too-blackened lashes, put a gardenia elaborately into his button-hole, and then turned to Eve.

"I hope you won't think I'm horrid," for Denny said he was going to be a big he-man and escort you out to the willows. . . . But I'm such a helpless little lady, and Denny isn't party to doing host at my dinner party that night. And this man—well, his wife's my friend and that's that. I hope I'm loyal. But he wants to do anything he can for me—"

Denny interrupted. "This man's building a publicity department for his corporation and Mitz thinks she can get me in on the ground floor!"

Mitz brushed the other gardenias across too-scarlet lips and made more play with her hand and black eyes. They heard a good deal about the man's thwarted passion for Mitz before she chattered herself out. Marilyn trailing behind her, being motored somewhere or other.

Ellen sized up Mitz. "WOULDNT it be wonderful if it really led to something?" Eve said. "I hope the man's simply nuts over her!"

Ellen Walton, carefully stuffing newspapers between china, said: "Well, of course he isn't. Somebody should send Mitz a Freud book. Once a man has been held by the lapels twice by Mrs. Preston T. Power he's just one of two things in her conversation: he's insulted her or made himself and has to be kept off with a gun, or he's only trying to forget his her complex. But outside of that she's a wise baby. I don't understand her or advise you to."

"Gosh, I'm not!" said Denny blithely. "Don't be crabby, Ellen. I'm dining with Mitz and abandoning Eve like a dropped glove, don't you say, Eve?" "Of course," Eve said. But she did wish that he'd let her tell him to go. He settled back on the couch Mitz had left and said: "What do you think her real name is? I found it in a

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

By PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON—This reciprocal trade business is getting out of hand. Secretary of State Hull claims to have made quite a success of it and many have come to agree with him. But Representative Dickstein hit on the idea of applying it to actors and other artistic talent.

Rep. Samuel Dickstein

He is sponsoring a bill which would require foreign nations to hire as many American singers and actors, as this country hires from abroad. We take Lily Pons, ship Jessica Dragonette to France. We ship Mae West to Italy and if Italy has a substitute for Mae West we'll be surprised.

Noel Coward comes from England, so we shuffle Robert Taylor to England in return. Scandinavia has us done in almost what with Grete Garbo, Kirsten Flagstad, Lauritz Melchior, and a fair quantity of others. But possibly we could please the Swedes, Danes, and Norwegians with Jean Harlow, Grace Moore and Lawrence Tibbett.

Yet mayhap the winsome Jessica doesn't want to go to France in exchange for Lily Pons or anybody else. Maybe she wants to stay here and keep a tennis date and sing on the radio.

It Can Be Done

BUT all that can be handled. Mr. Hull has made a success of three-way trade, as had merchants long before. We get Simone Simon from France, France goes to Russia for a ballet dancer and we, in turn, send Steph Fetcher or Harpo Marx to Russia and everybody's happy.

Perhaps Mr. Dickstein's bill wouldn't produce quite that effect. Actually what he wants is to shut out the second-class artists from abroad who drift in to compete with Americans. Deteriorating is second class seems to present no problem to Mr. Dickstein. He leaves it up to the secretary of labor, who now is Miss Perkins, but some time later may be Ed McGrady or John L. Lewis.

Oranges For Dancers?

OF COURSE the bill takes this stand, that if the American public sees somebody abroad for whom there is no American substitute, then that foreign artist may be brought over. But it would be up to the secretary of labor, advised but not controlled by artistic minds, to decide whether the United States could provide a sub for Sonja Henie, Lily Pons or Anna Mae Wong.

The ultimate solution might be to bring Secretary Hull and Mr. Dickstein together and arrange it so we could ship to France two tons of oranges and bring back a corresponding weight of adagio dancers.

Experts Breed Wheat That May Lick Winter

PROVING GROUND

Such weaknesses as toppling over in a wind are brought out in the experimental wheat field at Purdue university.

By PAUL D. S. SHOEMAKER
 (Associated Press Farm Editor)

Purdue, Ind. (AP)—Seeking to develop an exceptionally hardy breed of soft winter wheat, agronomists at Purdue university believe that after "creating" 14,000 different strains their goal is "within grasp."

Dr. G. H. Cutler, assistant chief of agronomy, settled back in his office and described the painstaking efforts to breed a strain which will withstand the sudden winter temperature changes of Indiana and similar areas. The wheat is desired by millers specializing in pastry and cake flour.

Dr. Cutler withheld announcement of when seed of the new strain would be available for farm planting, but experiments, he said, have progressed to where success is assured.

Winter A Killer

Need for a soft winter wheat which would withstand winter weather became evident when a 15-year average indicated that one acre of every 11 planted was lost through winter killing. Often this represented the difference between profit and loss to the grower.

Cross breeding was started under the direction of Dr. Cutler in 1930. It was a laborious undertaking, involving not only careful culture, but an elaborate catalogue record of each strain, 10,000 of which already have been discarded.

Dr. Cutler realized he had a job before him. To wait for seasonal weather changes for the experiments after crossing would take too long.

He had a university green house at his disposal, where spring, summer and winter weather could be simulated. He needed to produce near-zero and sub-zero temperatures to which small wheat plants could be subjected.

Uses Refrigerator

For this purpose a "winter weather" refrigerator was constructed inside the green house. With this he and Dr. W. W. Worzella were able to carry on their experiments irrespective of the weather outside.

Rows of young wheat plants in shallow wooden trays, each row a different strain, went into the "winter weather." Those able to withstand the "freeze" of perhaps three below zero for 24 hours won tags entitling them to grow to maturity and produce seed for possible future crossing. Less hardy plants went into the discard.

Field Tests

One strain might show exceptional resistance to cold but poor yield. Another might have a fine yield but a tendency to fall over in wind after heading. A cross of these two would be made and so on. Next came field tests under natural growing conditions.

The wheat plant is self-pollinating, and crossing of strains is a comparatively simple operation. A short time before the pistils are ready to shed pollen they are removed from the flowers on a plant to be crossed. The flowers then are covered with a small paper sack. When the pollen from the other side of the cross is ready, it is removed and placed in the flowers from which the pistils were taken.

TALKS TO PARENTS

Teaching Table Manners

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Parents are apt to make heavy weather of teaching table manners to their children. They insist on too many arbitrary rules. Table manners vary according to time and place, and to teach local or even national conventions to the young is a waste of time.

In some places it is proper to cut lettuce with a knife, in others it is a breach of etiquette. Whether to eat asparagus with a fork or lift it to the mouth with one's fingers, is a moot question. Corn on the cob is a problem to many. The English never shift the fork from the left hand to the right as Americans do. Some people bite bread, others consider such behavior barbarous, and break it into mouthfuls.

Anyone can learn these superficialities of good table manners by observing the people about him, just as, by a little delay he can learn which fork or spoon to use next. There are only a few fundamental rules to teach children, and these are all based on consideration for others.

One eats with one's mouth closed and as silently as possible. It is not pleasant for one's table-mates to watch the processes of mastication. For the same reason, one does not talk with one's mouth full. No one wants to be poked by his neighbor's elbow; therefore a child must learn to keep his elbows close to his sides.

Grabbing food, taking the largest or the last piece on the dish, complaining of food or service are unsocial acts, and therefore ill-bred. Lolling on the table takes up more space than is allotted to a single individual; moreover, it is an unattractive attitude. Drinking before wiping the mouth leaves an unsightly smear on the glass.

These are the rules which children need to learn, and there is a good reason for every one of them.

Bears' Own Welcome

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WILLY NILLY, Rip and Christopher went into the cellar.

"Hello, Willy Nilly. Hello, Rip. Hello, Christopher," said the bears between bites.

"What a looking!" exclaimed Willy Nilly.

Jelly Bear was squinting in a corner eating an apple.

"Hello, Bear," said Willy Nilly. "You're standing up by one of the shelves eating honey in the honey-comb."

Jupiter Bear had been so eager to get at a big jar of jam that he had taken off the top and poured the jam out on the floor so he could lap it up more quickly.

Blacky Bear was eating some apple jelly—some of which was on his chest and around his mouth.

Chubby was cracking and eating nuts as quickly as he could.

"We were sure you left the cellar door open as a deliberate hint for us to make ourselves at home," said Jelly Bear.

"I hadn't meant to leave the door open," began Willy Nilly.

"Oh, were so very sorry," growled Honey Bear severely. "We must leave at once and then you must lock the cellar door."

"Yes, after you've eaten almost everything!" cawed Christopher Columbus Crow.

"Oh, Willy Nilly, you aren't moved with us, are you?" asked Jelly Bear, putting a big arm around the little man's shoulder.

"No, no, of course not," said Willy Nilly. "I know how hungry you are after your winter's sleep. In fact, I was feeling quite upset that we hadn't greeted you properly. You know how glad we are to see you don't you?"

Folks Talk To This Machine To Get Their Ills Diagnosed

San Francisco (AP)—A machine that diagnoses disease through pulsations in the human voice has been added to the equipment of medical science.

Product of 12 years' specialization in nervous disorders and their effect on the vocal cords, the device was exhibited at the University of California medical school by its originator, Dr. Paul Moses. It is a variation of the kymograph, a standard scientific instrument which records any oscillation or vibration by wavy lines on a revolving cylinder.

Gives Closer Detection
Dr. Moses' contribution is in making the scientific needle sensitive to certain significant vibrations of the larynx and membranes of the nose and mouth which cannot be detected by the physician's own sight or hearing.

"Certain nerve afflictions change the human speech in their early stages," says Dr. Moses. "The significant thing about this discovery is that it permits us to detect some of those changes which would escape us in other methods."

"We have made important progress with this way of diagnosing general paralysis, Parkinson's disease, epilepsy and multiple sclerosis, though it will be years before the system can be fully worked out and put into general practice."

Needle Writes Story
Because a definite relationship exists between the human constitution and human speech, Dr. Moses asserts physical types can be classified by his tell-tale records of their articulation. All that's necessary is to speak into a mouthpiece and the needle writes the story.

Moses started his experiments under Dr. E. W. Scripture, a London and Vienna neurologist. He is now lecturing on voice diseases at the medical school.

Farm and Home Bureaus

Modena

Modena, March 3—Mrs. Edgar Clarke of Milton gave a second talk on "Psychology" to a group of Home Bureau members and their friends on Monday afternoon at Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck's residence.

Emotions, including hate, jealousy and unwise love, with resulting conditions, etc., were discussed widely; instances causing such emotions, and the proper dealing, or adjustment of circumstances advised.

Mrs. Clarke read poetry relating to uselessness of emotional anger, and the harm one incurs when anger becomes uncontrollable. Mrs. Clarke mentioned various types of jealousy, the why, wherefore, etc., of such a state, and how to overcome the emotion. Unwise love dealt mostly with over-protective parents, who so surrounded children with attention, that they were unable to think for themselves for their own benefit, and consequently ceased to think or do for themselves at all.

Books suggested to be read in connection with "Psychology" are the following: "The Deepening Stream," "Discovering the Genius Within You," "Keeping Mentally Fit."

These talks by Mrs. Clarke on "Understanding Others" was a preliminary to the regular course, which the local unit is anticipating on taking during the coming season of activities.

Those attending Monday afternoon's meeting were Mrs. Willard Jenkins, Mrs. Herman DuBois, Mrs. C. Vandewater of New Paltz, Mrs. Myron Coons of Plattkill, Miss Irene Sickler, Mrs. Jonah Rhodes, Miss Hilda Rhodes, Mrs. Winfield Jenkins, Mrs. Philip Baker, Mrs. Walter Barnard, Mrs. Werner Passberg, Mrs. Parker Hull, Mrs. Andrew Runk, Mrs. Rose Thomas, Mrs. William Bahret, Mrs. Charles Covert, Mrs. Harry Sutton, Mrs. Siah Roosa, Mrs. Edwin Terwilliger, of Clintondale, Mrs. George Altheusen, Mrs. Ira Hyatt, Mrs. Eugene Fairbridge, Mrs.

The next meeting of the Home Bureau unit will be held Wednesday, March 10, when a lesson on "Nutrition" will be given in the morning, with Mrs. Wygant Courter and Mrs. Orville Seymour as local leaders; in the afternoon the third lesson on "Grooming" will be given by Mrs. Parker Hull and Misses Marian and Helen Palmer.

Modena, March 4—The "Nutrition" and "Grooming" projects to be demonstrated to members of the Modena Home Bureau, by local leaders, will be held in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall on Wednesday, March 10. An all day meeting will be in session, and covered dish luncheon served at noon. The morning session will be devoted to the "Nutrition" course, with Mrs. Wygant Courter, Sr., and Mrs. Orville Seymour in charge. During the afternoon, the "Grooming" demonstration will be in charge of Mrs. Parker Hull and the Misses Helen and Marian Palmer. Shampoos, hair arrangement, hair waving, etc., will be in progress. Charting Family Trees Becomes Big Business

By SIGRID ABNE

Washington (AP).—Americans have become so ancestor-conscious that they keep a small army of highly-specialized professionals busy here digging up family-trees and coloring coats-of-arms.

The capital seems to be the happy-hunting-grounds for family-trees because of two huge reference libraries on the subject: One at D. A. R. headquarters, the other in the Library of Congress.

Neither library will produce the tree gratis, but refers inquiries to a list of genealogists that live in Washington, who will gladly dig up ancestors for $1 an hour. Once the tree has been completed, the coat-of-arms is easily identified, and it can be nicely water-colored for $15.

Many Difficulties

The irritating turns that a search for ancestors can take are legion. For instance, an Iowa family may trace back to a John Hendricks who enlisted from Virginia for the Revolutionary war. But the records may show there were two such Johns, one 41 years old, and one 17. Which John was it?

How do you want your family tree? You can have it drawn like a real tree. The first patriarch's name is inscribed on the roots, and all his descendants become branches and leaves. Or you can have his name start at the top with his descendants falling down the paper like a steel frame-work.

A great many trees have been published. The D. A. R. have 263,078 volumes and pamphlets on the subject, and one of their most illustrious members has been able to trace 23 family trees to which she is related. So she wears 23 shining, little bars on her breast at D. A. R. functions.

Discovered Skeletons

Occasionally a genealogist uncovers a family skeleton. But the profession has become so well organized that there are rules to cover such exigencies.

If the family includes a gentleman who, unfortunately, was hanged, the genealogist just puts his name and birth and death dates into the family-tree, and forgets the whole business.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, March 4.—Lester S. Davis and William V. Colange filled their season's ice requirements last week. The ice, of excellent quality and running eight to nine inches in thickness, was obtained from the vast available supply on Kenosia Lake.

Judge and Mrs. Lester S. Davis entertained a group of friends at their Main street home Tuesday evening.

Sunday afternoon a group of young people enjoyed a thin ice skating party on Dolan's quarry pond at West Shokan Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gorsline of Hurley and Mr. and Mrs. Hasson Steen of Mohonk Lake were among recent social callers at the hospitable home of Judge and Mrs. Henry Winchell at Sunny Cliff Farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Bishop of West Shokan Heights were Kingston visitors on Monday.

The sapling season is on and good running days are reported. Judge Fred L. Weidner stated Tuesday that he has made about 10 gallons of first run extra grade maple syrup.

Miss Lydia Scott of Shokan called on West side friends Friday afternoon. Miss Scott is a former directress of nurses at St. Luke's Hospital, New York city.

Charles Hesley is putting in his annual ice crop.

Mrs. Grecian Bessardney of Long Island City was a week-end guest of Maple Dell Farm.

Charles Blakeslee of Kingston and visiting friends were local callers Tuesday afternoon after attending the funeral of little Billie Shultis at Olive Bridge.

Mrs. Bertha Thompson and daughter, Mrs. Hazel Geyer, have returned to their home here, after spending several months in Kingston.

Miss Helen Thompson customarily spent the week-end here.

Miss Catherine Roe spent Sunday at the Jordan homestead in Brodhead.

There will be a public dance held at Colange's hall Saturday evening, March 6. Games also will be played by those who wish to. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Delamater and Mr. and Mrs. Van Demark of Kingston visited Mrs. Morton Roe on Sunday afternoon.

The many friends of Dr. Joseph J. Cosgrove of Brodhead are pleased that he is able to be about again after his serious illness.

Truckman Henry Bell handled logs Monday for Walter Schmoekel, for sawing at Raymond Miller's Brodhead Heights mill.

Wednesday's meeting of the West Shokan Ladies' Aid was held at Mr. and Mrs. Ray Van Demark's social hall.

West side friends regret to hear that Daniel Sampson, the well-known Shokan Heights farmer, is ill at his home.

The children of the West Shokan school have tapped the trees in the school yard and keenly anticipate later on holding their annual maple sugar party.

The Wagner children are making early plans for the plowing and planting of a big garden to supply the family with fresh home grown vegetables.

Cornelia Davis was entertained Sunday evening at the home of Miss Mildred Roe.

Is Ready to Begin Legal Career at the Age of 70

Washington.—That current adage of life beginning at 40 means nothing to Frank J. Cushman, who soon will begin his legal career at the age of seventy.

Spanish war veteran and jack of many trades, Cushman, at the age of sixty-seven settled down to studying law at Columbia university. He is scheduled to graduate in June.

Age is solely a question of outlook, Cushman believes, explaining: "It is quite natural that I have lost what they call physical pep. I can't run a hundred yards, for example, but my mental powers are sharper than ever. I believe age has its compensations."

Married and the father of four children, Cushman's grandson, Albert A. Cushman, also is studying law in a midwestern university, he said, adding: "After we both graduate we intend to set up a partnership."

Ladies wore sandals in ancient days, too—but without stilts, so they could walk as gracefully as men.

U.S. Industry Makes Long Strides Along Prosperity's Path

New York, March 4 (U.P.).—American industry made a long stride in 1936 toward prosperity of thumping proportions, analysts agreed today as they studied data indicating net profits exceeded $7,000,000,000 to rank it as the best year since the 1929 peak.

The tentative estimate, which would indicate a 30 per cent advance from 1935, although 40 per cent under the $11,554,000,000 earned in 1929, was based on statements from 1,000 corporations and experience with reports of previous years.

Reports already available indicate a 50 per cent hike in net profits over 1935 but statisticians, in placing total net profits at $7,000,000,000 or possibly more, pointed out that wider gains usually are shown in the earlier reports in a period of recovery.

The 1936 net was $6,429,000,000. Some analysts saw in the vastly improved condition of American industry a partial explanation for the readiness with which huge corporations in the motor, steel and other industries, have jacked up wages in response to labor demands for a larger share in the fruits of recovery.

Many large companies have still to report and the complete tabulation of earnings of 500,000-odd concerns which the income tax returns will not be available for two years.

The push toward former peaks has been led by heavy industry recently. Although no large industry bettered its previous income peak, several appear to have hung up the second or third best record in history. Chemicals, for instance, topped both 1927 and 1928. So did machine firms. Automobile accessory units beat their 1927 income.

The biggest gainers during 1936 were steel and paper companies which almost trebled income of the year before, according to the recent survey of the National City Bank.

Department stores picked up 156 per cent followed closely by building materials, up 154 per cent, and heating and plumbing, up 141. Other big gainers included rubbers, agricultural implements, machinery and sugars.

The only profit decline noted in the bank's compilation was for woolen companies. This was due principally to the unusually heavy demand in 1935.

Albright Case in Supreme Court

Elizabeth Albright, as administratrix of the estate of Augustus Albright, is bringing an action in Supreme Court against Sidney Black of Port Ewen to recover damages for the death of her husband, who was fatally injured last July 25 as he was crossing the street at the entrance to the Rondout Creek Bridge. Mr. Albright was walking with a companion toward Broadway over Abel street and was in the act of crossing Wurts street when the truck of the defendant came off the bridge and struck Mr. Albright.

Taken to the Kingston Hospital he died shortly after from the injuries which he suffered.

Tried once before a jury brought in a verdict for $1,000 and this was set aside as being insufficient and a new trial granted. The former trial was had before Justice Schirick at the December term after Justice Foster had been taken ill and Justice Schirick took over the term. The court reserved decision on a motion to set aside the verdict made by Mr. Flemming, counsel for plaintiff, and later granted the motion and directed a new trial. A. J. Cook appears for defendant.

It was in the Albright action that a jury deliberated for some time and then requested instruction from the court. When the court inquired as to the points on which the jurors desired instruction it was stated by the foreman that there was conflict in the minds of some jurors as to whether the action was of a criminal nature.

Justice Schirick instructed the jury and told it that there was no criminal action involved. The jurors evidently were under the impression that a verdict for plaintiff would bring down a criminal proceeding on the defendant. After retiring, the jury finally came back with the $1,000 verdict, evidently a compromise decision.

Wednesday a jury was selected and the afternoon session was taken up with testimony by James F. Loughran, engineer, who identified maps and testified to distances and conditions which exist at the bridge entrance where the accident happened.

HAIL INVENTOR OF HOLE IN DOUGHNUT

Maine Seafarer Cited for the Hall of Fame.

Bangor, Me.—The late Captain Hanson Gregory of Camden has been nominated for the Hall of Fame by the national doughnut committee. The citation declares that Captain Gregory, who died fourteen years ago, "not only discovered the hole in the first place, but invented the proper process for enclosing the hole in the doughnut."

Captain Gregory went to sea as a cabin boy, became "cook and hand," then second mate at nineteen, mate at twenty-one and a master mariner at twenty-five, sailing in all rigs and sizes from a lime coaster to a full-rigged ship.

It was while he was a sea cook that he "invented" the hole in the doughnut. Ancient mariners and old settlers recall the time, down to the Civil war and later, when a doughnut was just a square chunk of dough fried in fat. For the most part they were soggy, greasy and almost indigestible. Naturally seagoing folk called them "sinkers."

Gregory was a cook with progressive ideas, and when sarcastic remarks were made about his doughnuts he devised improvements. First, instead of cutting the dough into square pieces, he cut it into discs with a cake cutter. Then he put in more "shortening" and puffed the mass up with baking powder or yeast "rising." He waited until his fat was sizzling hot before he began frying—but even then his doughnuts seemed a bit too heavy.

Thinking it over, a bright idea struck Cook Gregory:

"Why so much dough in one lump?"

He got a tinsmith to make an implement that cut the dough into rings, leaving the famous hole in the middle.

"Life preservers," the sailors called them. That process vastly improved the doughnut, and soon cooks everywhere had adopted it.

Wintry Blasts Will Be Studied in Far North

Washington.—The cause of wintry cold waves will be studied for the first time in plane flights to be made at Fairbanks, Alaska.

Harold Gillam, commercial pilot, will attempt twice daily until next March 15 to soar three miles above the earth to make observations that are expected to throw new light on the structure of polar continental air.

In his plane, Gillam will carry aero-meteorographs, instruments which automatically record temperature, pressure, and humidity in the air through which they pass.

A contract with the government provides Gillam will be paid $60 for each flight that he is able to make according to specifications. The funds will come from money appropriated by the Bankhead-Jones act, passed by congress to further research in the field of agriculture.

The upper-air observations will be telegraphed to Seattle for use in making the daily weather forecasts. Analyses of the observations are to be made in Washington.

France Plans to Build 51 New Naval Vessels

Paris, France.—The French government plans soon to begin a tremendous naval building program of fifty-one ships, it was learned.

All will be small vessels, their total tonnage being only 40,000. They are designed to balance the fleet, for in recent years the French have devoted most of their building to larger craft and small auxiliaries have been neglected.

The only large new vessel in the new program will be a 7,000-ton cruiser. France already possesses a crack modern cruiser fleet as well as a modern destroyer flotilla.

In addition the program will include eight torpedo boats, seven submarines, one tanker and some thirty auxiliary vessels.

Construction of seven new submarines will bring France's undersea fleet to ninety-six, perhaps the largest and most modern in Europe.

Gold in This Duck
Oregon City, Ore. — Mrs. William McKillop, of Holcomb, found six gold nuggets in the craw of a decoy duck raised on her husband's farm.

Blue Jay Is Worst Scavenger of Woods

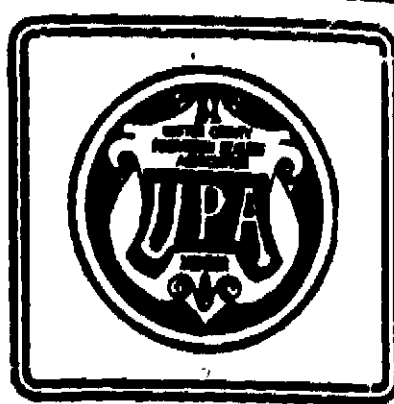

Jerseyville, Ill. — The worst scavenger of the woods is not the common crow, according to L. E. Groppe of Rosedale, former county superintendent of schools of Jersey county. The crow is bad enough, says Groppe, but the bluejay is more destructive of song and insectivorous birds' nests, eggs and young. "The jays will travel in gangs," said Groppe. "Some of the gang will fly about the outer branches of a tree, while others slip about inside the leaf shelter. When one of the band finds the object of their search, he immediately gives vent to his signal call and the cannibal birds at once devour or destroy their prey."

Rotary Hears Talk on Lincoln

A tribute to the greatness of Abraham Lincoln was spoken by the Rev. J. Walter Baker of Woodstock before the members and guests of Rotary in the Governor Clinton Hotel yesterday noon and the speaker took incidents from Lincoln's life to prove that his greatness was an ability to think broadly and to translate those thoughts into the common language of the average man.

The Rev. Mr. Baker's speech was skillfully constructed to show Lincoln a failure during the formative years of his life. Born in poverty, his early struggle to find a footing was marked in constant heart-breaking defeat. Beaten constantly in his efforts to win public office, so deeply in debt it took him 17 years to get into the clear, laughed at and defeated at every turn, the man Lincoln kept grimly on and finally achieved his objective. In fact, the endless succession of misfortunes that plagued Lincoln throughout his life seemed to spur him on to greater effort.

The speaker brought a wealth of information concerning Lincoln's childhood, his early working years, his tragic love for Ann Rutledge and his final marriage to the hysterical Mary Todd. And yet as the Rev. Mr. Baker discussed incident after incident in Lincoln's life, the whole story of his major failures and minor successes, which reversed themselves in later years, made a pattern of a life that refused to accept defeat and that marched on to a destiny of unusual greatness.

Assure Trout's Safety

Albany, March 4 (AP).—The Conservation Department assured northern New York fishermen today that construction of trails along the Salmon river would not deplete the stream's trout supply. On the contrary, the department explained for those it said had expressed alarm, the trails are necessary for the stream development through better stocking and other improvements.

See the new building and returning made necessary by the floods will cause a little brief prosperity. Put that kind of thing in sound. It's like war. The losses of all kinds far outweigh the small, temporary gains. Flood prevention is the answer. War prevention, too.

Stranger—And supposing I were Levy, did you have to hit me so hard?

Goldberg—What do you care how hard I hit Levy?

Native—Yeah.

Visitor—Well, tell me, what precautions do you take against it?

Native—First we filter it.

Visitor—Yes.

Native—Then we boil it.

Visitor—Yes.

Native—And then we drink beer.

To be exact his total mileage during twenty-three years of service with the Grace Line is 1,500,996. He passed the million and a half mark somewhere between here and Havana. His average annual travel during this period was 65,000 miles, or about three and one-half miles for every hour he has lived. His age is fifty-three.

In the latest Town Hall Allen had some more things to say about Benny, who is due in New York Saturday to conduct his next three broadcasts from the East. He is coming because Mrs. B. Cathedral Choir to Bring Rare Recital

J. William Jones and the Choir of the Cathedral of All Saints of Albany, will give a recital in the Fair Street Reformed Church, Tuesday evening, March 16. Kingston is fortunate in securing this famous choir.

This remarkable organization will bring to its Kingston audience the great ecclesiastical music which has been the priceless heritage of the church throughout the centuries.

The choir is one of the finest of its kind throughout the country, possessing a large and varied repertoire. The Cathedral Choristers are exponents of the best in their art and offer to the concert stage of America a new and vital kind of entertainment.

J. William Jones has been one of the youngest organists and choir-masters in a position of such importance and prominence. His genuine musical versatility has been demonstrated by his success as organist, choirmaster, singer, composer, and conductor. Under his energetic and talented leadership the choir has grown to its present position and prominence. The annual Choral Festival in the Diocese of Albany founded and conducted by him, now in its sixth season climaxes each year the musical season in the Capitol District.

The boy choristers are carefully selected from the public schools of the city. Only a few of the many applicants are admitted to the training class through which after years of intensive training they are promoted to a place in the regular choir. The new boys average nine years of age and remain until their voices change.

These boys have a busy musical life with daily rehearsals, Sunday services in the Cathedral, and annual broadcasting series. Each month they have a rest period of several days.

The Cathedral Choir men are selected not only for the unusual timbre of their voices but for thorough musicianship and experience in ensemble singing as well. Several of the present men were formerly sopranos and altos in the choir. Many hours of rehearsal each week under the inspired direction of the choir-master assure the polished performance for which the choir is noted.

Cathedrals have always played an important part in the life of a nation, not only from the standpoint of religion but that of art and culture. In the Middle Ages, it was the Cathedrals and Monasteries that kept alive the torch of learning and liberal culture of every branch. The arts of painting, sculpture, music, and drama took their rise in the church; and Cathedrals of old were the centers of all sorts of activities of benefit to humanity.

National Observance Of Peace at Y. W.

The Business Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. joined in a nationwide observance of world peace at the supper meeting held last night. Telegrams in connection with the movement were read from the Y. W. C. A.'s in Schenectady and Gloversville.

A rising vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Charles Terwilliger who has so ably given of her time in arranging the menus for these weekly suppers and who has resigned her duties. Various committees of the Business Girls will be responsible for the menus in the future.

The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool of the First Dutch Reformed Church was the guest speaker of the evening, and gave a delightfully informal address in keeping with the world peace theme. There are three national issues that are causing excitement today: the Supreme Court question, crime, and war and peace. Making the familiar quotation, "If we don't end war, war will end us," Mr. Oudemool said that we are headed for another war. Many indications point to this fact, the most significant being the present war in Spain. Hitler trying to put Germany "back in the sun" and, therefore, ready to welcome a war, and the huge budget which France is trying to carry.

Showing that the problem of war must be faced realistically, Mr. Oudemool gave statistics on the cost in money of the last war and cited the much good that could have been done with the same amount of money spent wisely. The war, which was waged for profit, created 21,000 billionaires.

The Christian way to end war would be to "kill the enemies not enemies, through brotherhood, friendship, and the omission of profit-gaining." The speaker gave three ways in which this might be done. First, for each individual to make a tangible, and unselfish contribution. Secondly, to think the problem through and take a definite stand, participating in no war except one in defense; and thirdly, by taking the opportunity to produce public opinion. This method will of course meet with opposition.

Mr. Oudemool closed his talk by telling of the present plan of the army to end mobilization and to give the President sole power and access to everything in the country. There will be no more enlistment; every man of 18 or over will have to register. Pacifists will be liable to court martial. The only exception to this rule will be the religious organizations whose creeds definitely have the statement of being against war.

Frank W. Mason, principal of the Saugerties High School will be the guest speaker at the next meeting, March 19, to which each member is privileged to bring a guest.

Lowell Club

Lowell Club members who attended the meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James A. Gottfried, 19 Irving Place, heard four extremely interesting papers in connection with their study of the drama.

A playwright, one of his works and two famous stars of stage and screen were discussed. Eugene O'Neill, the author, his life and works, was followed by Miss A. D. Quimby. His famous trilogy, "Mourning Becomes Electra," was perused by Mrs. May Quimby, who also read a few selections from the work.

Mrs. Rose K. Witter, in telling of Helen Hayes, spoke of her work and life, and especially mentioned her acting in the play "Victoria Regina," which has had such a long run on Broadway.

Mrs. J. A. McCommons read the last paper on Leslie Howard, the famous, versatile, and erudite English actor.

Mrs. A. S. Cole will entertain the club next week.

Clayton Hamilton Reminisces on Drama

A charming mixture of educational facts and reminiscences of the theatre were told Wednesday evening in a conversational manner by Clayton Hamilton, outstanding dramatic critic, lecturer and author. Mr. Hamilton was brought here under the auspices of the Kingston Schoolwomen's Club and concludes this term's series of lectures annually sponsored by the organization.

When the layman goes to the theatre, he watches the actions on the stage. When Mr. Hamilton goes to the theatre, he turns his back on the actors and watches the audience. The directors of the theatres know that the people casually gathered out in front represent the necessary collaborators in the art. The capital necessary for a production cannot possibly be furnished by a manager or a group of managers, so it is, therefore, necessary to turn to the public interest in the theatre. To do this it is necessary for them to know the intimate psychology of the audience.

A play in the theatre ceases to exist with the final curtain. Even though it is reproduced hundreds of times, each time it must be recreated. This is the reason why the drama can only be studied at its best in the theatre. Books of plays in home libraries can be regarded in two ways. If looked at retrospectively, they are reports or records of plays that did exist in the past or have perhaps existed many times in the past. They are no more really related to the actual play than the report or record in the newspaper of a world series played the day before has to do with the game itself. Reading an account is a cold experience of a play.

Looking at the play in another point of view, it is seen as a series of directions for bringing a play into existence in the future. Only with this second view is it possible to regard the text of a new play not yet reproduced, and only in manuscript form.

It is impossible to tell whether a play, when acted out will be a success on the stage. The person reading the script can only hope it will make a play. Until a play is given before an audience, no one knows whether it is a good play or not. At the dress rehearsal, the effects are planned out as well as can be hoped for.

Mr. Hamilton gave many interesting and amusing anecdotes of his experience in the theatre, and how many times the producers had been mistaken as to the reaction of the audience.

The custom in the theatre world of today is to have three or four private performances called rehearsals, before an invited audience of non-professional theatre people, so that the play can be given before different audiences. If a situation in an action is not received in the same way by all the groups, the directors have a serious problem to face. Thus it is easy to see that the presence of an audience is necessary to the very existence of the play and in the writing of the drama. So long as the audience is conscious of the fact that it is listening to or watching something, then the play is not considered a success. It is only real when the audience forgets its reality and seems to be on the stage in the person of the actor and an illusion of participation is realized. The real purpose of the theatre according to Mr. Hamilton is to make the average person enjoy himself and give him a vicarious experience of life.

Mr. Hamilton contrasted the audience of today with the audience of Shakespeare's time and showed how it is so much more difficult to write today than in the early history of the drama. The theatres today are maintained mostly by women. The kind of drama that will appear in the next 25 years depends on the kind of women who continue to go to the theatre. Mr. Hamilton expressed great hope for the future which was based on the fact that better audiences are beginning to patronize the theatre and the vulgar is leaving.

24 Millions Spent In 1936 Campaign

affiliated with corporations," while 4 per cent were employed by the federal government.

Other highlights of the report were:

Du Pont Donations

The du Pont families of Wilmington, Del., spent more than any other, 12 members donating $510,370 to the Republican party and kindred organizations.

Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential candidate, spent not a single cent in his own behalf, all his expenses being borne by the party.

President Roosevelt's personal expenditures were $20 for postage and $650 in donations to Democratic organizations.

The most modest campaign was conducted by the National Greenback party which spent only $2.50.

The largest expenditure in the senator races was $36,573 by Warren W. Harbourn, former Republican senator from New Jersey. William H. Snathers, Democratic victor, spent $6,154.

The 1936 campaign cost more than twice as much as the 1932 election, the most expensive on record until last year.

In 1928 the Republicans spent $6,256,000, and the Democrats $5,342,000, bringing the total to $11,598,000.

The Communist party got the least results for its money. It spent $270,489, or $3.37 for every vote its presidential candidate received.

Republican expenditures averaged 85 cents for each ballot cast for Landon while the average Democratic vote cost 33 cents.

The lowest cost per vote was 11 cents, reported by the Union party.

Mannerchor Hall Fire

The fire in Mannerchor Hall, above the Shultz paint store on the corner of East Strand and Hasbrouck avenue, Wednesday afternoon, was a slight one and was extinguished by chemicals. It was caused by a stove tipping over, the fire department reported. Trucks and firemen from the central station and Cornell Hose Company answered the still alarm.

In 1936 North Carolina produced 464,895,000 pounds of tobacco as compared with 577,435,000 pounds in 1935.

NEW TROUBLE SPOT APPEARS IN EAST

France and Turkey Claim Title to Alexandretta.

Washington, D. C. — The Near East's newest trouble spot, up in the malarial northwest corner of Syria, where both France and Turkey are claiming permanent title to the district of Alexandretta, is the subject of a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"The sanjak, or district, of Alexandretta, though lost in the entity of the French mandate of Syria until recent plans for Syrian independence came to the fore, is one of the bits of the jig-saw puzzle carved from the Turkish Levant following the World war," says the bulletin.

"While it is a part of the new republic of Syria, under French protection, it is at the same time a self-governing province under direct French administration. Turkey, however, points out that the majority of its inhabitants are Turkish, and also that the area was only conditionally surrendered by Turkey at the Paris Peace Conference.

Two Important Cities

"The district has two important cities. One is Antioch, scene of the exploits of Ben Hur, and the other is the seaport and rail terminus of Alexandretta, named for Alexander the Great. Antioch, little changed since the days when Paul and Barnabas preached nearby, is a flourishing trade center in the midst of a rich farming region, much of its fertile soil pierced with licorice roots. Modern highways now link this former capital of the Roman empire in the Orient with Aleppo and other parts of Syria.

"Alexandretta dates from the Fourth century A. D. Its Turkish name, Iskanderun, recalls the victory of Alexander the Great over the Persians at Issus (333 B. C.). Before the construction of the Suez canal it was one of the chief outlets for caravan trade from India and Persia. Until a modern motor road from Antioch was run north across the Amanus range, Alexandretta's trade was largely with Antiochia, via a narrow-gauge railroad connecting it with the Baghdad railroad at Toppa-Kale, in Turkey.

Near Famous Peak

"Because it is a drab, work-a-day city of some 12,000 population, with almost no tourist attractions, Alexandretta does not often come into the news. Built on a marshy plain, backed by the Amanus range, the city is notoriously unhealthy, although its splendid harbor has the best anchorage north of Beirut (Beyrouth).

"Not far from either Alexandretta or Antioch rises the famous mountain Musa Dagh, scene of the dramatic World war siege described in the recent best seller 'The Forty Days of Musa Dagh.' In nearby Anatolia is the city of Tarsus, birthplace of Paul the Apostle, to whom the pleasures and wickedness of Antioch were anathema.

"The Alexandretta region possesses several well watered valleys which normally produce abundant crops, including cotton, tobacco, licorice, and citrus fruits. Live stock, silk cocoons, and textiles are also exported. Oil has been discovered in the region, as well as deposits of chrome and antimony ores.

"Sheltered from storms of weather, Alexandretta, which formerly had a huge colony of Armenian refugees from Cilicia, has had its share of man-made strife and promises to have more."

Capt. F. C. E. Hayter, an aviator, was fined $500 for smuggling cigars and brandy into England from France.

Mayor Returns From Vacation

This morning Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman resumed activities in his office at the city hall fully refreshed after two weeks in the sunny southland where he went to revive his energy and get set for a busy spring and summer.

Mayor Heiselman arrived in Kingston yesterday, brown as a berry from the Florida sunshine, and stopped off at his office to be greeted by a desultory of business that called for him to be on the job bright and early this morning.

"I feel fine," he told a reporter who asked how he enjoyed his vacation, "and am ready to dig into this pile of business that accumulated while I was away."

Concerning an interview, the mayor said he preferred to talk about his trip after getting through with his work. "Most of the matters calling for my attention demand immediate action, so I must forget all about the vacation, which is past." One of the first members of his official family to confer with the mayor was David Conway, superintendent of the board of public works, who had a long list of things to take up with the city's head.

Ten Eyck Blames Big Dealers for Fall Of Milk Accord

Albany, March 4 (AP)—State Agriculture Commissioner Peter G. Ten Eyck charged today that big milk dealers "wrecked" negotiations for a seven-state milk marketing agreement "so that they could continue racketeering."

"The plan never would have failed if the big dealers had not opposed it so vigorously," he told a bi-partisan legislative committee at the final of a series of hearings designed to sound out sentiment as to the future of New York's Milk Control Law.

The commissioner said that "some means of regulating interstate shipments of milk is imperative."

Addressing the committee and 500 farmers assembled in the State Education building, Ten Eyck said that "marked lack of agreement" among farmers and dealers has made administration of the law difficult.

Ten Eyck said that "the time has come when the industry itself should take the initiative and make specific recommendations to the Legislature designed to further the best interests of the industry as a whole."

Dentist Held in Death of Student

Richmond, Va., March 4 (AP)—Dr. R. G. Miller, a middle-aged dentist, was quoted by Sheriff J. Mason Smith today as confessing he administered the chloroform that killed pretty Cleo Sproule, whose body was found Tuesday beside a cemetery wall.

Smith said the dentist expressed a wish for a "quick trial."

The sheriff attributed both a verbal and a written statement to the dentist.

Previously the sheriff said, Miller confessed verbally while en route from Charlottesville, where he was arrested and where the body of the 18-year-old high school girl was found Tuesday beside a stone wall separating the cemetery and golf course of the University of Virginia.

The dentist was quoted as saying he placed the body there Monday after she died from chloroform he administered as he prepared to perform an illegal operation in a car six miles outside the city.

Miller insisted he was not responsible for the girl's condition, Sheriff Smith said.

A chloroform can, balanced opening down over the girl's mouth and nostrils, which were packed with saturated medical cotton, provided the clue, Smith said, that led to Miller's arrest.

Two Die in Fire

New York, March 4 (AP)—Flames raging through two five-story tenements on the lower East Side claimed at least two lives today, causing injuries to four tenants and 11 firemen, and drove 200 residents to the street in their nightclothes. Two bodies were found, both charred beyond recognition. Firemen, beginning mop-up operations, expressed belief that many more bodies still remained in the smoldering ruins.

Burger to Head New Youth Council

A meeting was held at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night for the purpose of reorganizing the Ulster County Christian Youth Council. New officers were elected as follows: Earl Burger, president; Elizabeth Heaps and Roger Salzmann, vice presidents; Ruth Koonz, secretary; Doris Harvey, membership secretary; Alma Cross, treasurer; the Rev. Arthur Oudemool, pastoral counselor.

The new governing board was installed by the Rev. Russell Gaenzle, retiring pastoral counselor.

Two definite Sunday evening forums were planned, the first to take place on March 14 with the Rev. Arthur Oudemool leading a discussion on "Developing a Program of Personal Religious Living," and the second on April 4 with Robert Sisson leading in the topic, "Providing a Constructive Use of Leisure Time." Other services are planned for the latter part of Spring, similar to the vespers services of last year.

A committee is working on the project of the annual Easter Dawn service to be held back of Kingston High School on Easter morning at 7 o'clock. Further plans for this service will be announced later. An Easter morning breakfast is also under consideration.

Various committee chairmen are Roger Salzmann, Henry VanderZee, Ruth Koonz.

The meeting closed with a report by Henry VanderZee concerning the New York State Convention held at Schenectady on February 19-21. The new Youth Council slogan is, "For us there is no alternative. We give ourselves and invite others to join us. Christian Youth building a new world."

Drunken Driving Case in City Court

Ring Sought By Police In Buffalo

Buffalo, March 4 (AP)—Police sought Mary Ellen Babcock's engagement ring and the man who gave it to her today in their investigation of the knife-slashing of the 18-year-old high school girl. The man, police said they were told, had slapped the girl on a public dance floor several months before he gave her the ring.

Detective Chief John J. Whalen said a girl friend of Miss Babcock informed him that "I saw her at a dance, and a young man was slapping her."

"I met her again last fall in a tavern and she said she was engaged to 'that fellow who was slapping me around that night.'"

"She had a ring."

No ring, however, was found on the slain girl when her body was discovered in a south Buffalo field several weeks ago, pierced by nine knife wounds.

Whalen said his informant said that "I don't know the name of the man, but I would recognize him."

Detective Edwin J. McGuire of the Buffalo police meanwhile continued his questioning at Northampton, Mass., of a man quoted by police there as admitting an attack on a Buffalo girl several weeks ago.

Sloan Issues Brief Note to Workers

New York, March 4 (AP)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, today addressed a message to all employees emphasizing the principles of labor relations to be followed by the company under the settlement of the recent sit-down strike.

Explaining "How we stand today," Sloan summed up as follows:

"1. General Motors agrees to deal with the United Automobile Workers Union, only so far as its own members are concerned.

"2. General Motors has not recognized, and will not recognize, any union as speaking for all its workers, in any plant.

"3. The privilege of joining or not joining any union is a matter entirely of your personal choice.

"4. You do not have to pay tribute to anybody to hold a job in a General Motors plant. I told you that in my message of January 5. That still holds good."

Sloan also asked particular attention to his statement, stressed in italics in the printed address:

"The increase of wages you received in going back to work had nothing to do with the negotiations."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, March 4 (AP)—Selected stocks tilted forward in today's market but buying vigor faded from a number of the recent leaders.

Favored merchandising, utility, rail and specialty issues attracted buying attention while steels, motors and others drooped.

The ticker tape was behind during almost the entire first hour. There was a distinct absence of general trend, however, and activity slowed appreciably around noon. Quiet prevailed near the final lap. Transfers were around 2,700,000 shares.

Steel labor peace continued as a sustaining market influence, but many traders were inclined to cash in part of their profits.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube shares were pushed up around 5 points at the best. Gains of fractions to 2 were registered for Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Marshall Field, Allied Stores, Consolidated Edison, North American, Western Union, Johns-Manville and Allied Chemical.

In the minus column most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, du Pont, Standard Oil of N. J., and Anaconda.

U. S. Smelting and American Smelting did better as the New York Importer silver rate was raised 1/2 cent an ounce to 45 1/2 cents, equaling its top of the year established in January.

The French franc developed weakness in terms of the dollar as Paris advances indicated another downward revaluation in the former might take place over the week-end.

A recovery sign was seen in the bank clearing figures for the week ended yesterday. These disclosed an upturn of 17.2 per cent over the same 1936 period.

New Advance in Security Prices

An advance in security prices, with radios showing a marked upward tendency, advances in important commodities, steel operations and the labor movement featured yesterday's news. C. I. O. added a conference with General Electric to its other gains; there were further indications of an end to major strike threats.

Pittsburgh steel rates touched what is practically capacity, 90 per cent of theoretical capacity, highest since 1929 and steel scrap the hit $22 a ton, highest since 1923. Youngstown operations advanced to $4.5 per cent. Export copper rose to 15.3 cents a pound. Tin was strong in London on U. S. buying, cotton was strong, sugar was higher.

Stock exchange volume Wednesday was highest since November 5 last year, 3,570,000 shares, changing hands. Ralls penetrated their high of last fall, utilities sagged fractionally.

Electric output last week showed a gain of 13.7 per cent over a year ago.

New York Telephone reported a station gain of 11,512 in February against a gain of 6,208 a year ago.

Engineering construction awards in February were $189,187,000, highest level for any February since 1930. Private awards were 145 per cent above year before.

Government Takes Action to Stop Dope Smuggling

Marshfield, Ore.—A move to throttle dope smuggling activities along the rugged coast of southern Oregon will be initiated by the United States Treasury department by an increase in patrol boats, cutters and narcotic agents.

Two full-time narcotic men are stationed here now. Six more are expected to take up their duties under the new plan.

A squadron of five coast guard cutters and a number of new 90-foot patrol boats already in use on the eastern coast are to be transferred to Pacific waters to battle the drug trade and participate in other coast guard work.

The government recognized the seriousness of the dope smuggling trade along this coast last summer when six agents were assigned to various southern Oregon points.

With the co-operation of the Cutter Palaski, the agents have discovered and broken up several contact points.

The drugs were being run by fast motor car to Portland, Seattle and San Francisco after being taken from Oriental ships and smuggled into isolated coves.

Treasures now permit Uncle Sam's coast guards to board foreign vessels 100 miles off shore to search for contraband.

Storm Ceases in Heavy Situation

New York, March 3 (AP)—The much-mixed-up heavyweight situation dropped back into the first calm in weeks today, broken only by Joe Gould handing out 35 cent cigars and telling one and all what a "great guy" is Champion Jim Braddock.

Max Baer is on the high seas bound for London after playing hide-and-seek with Madison Square Garden's process servers; Max Schmeling is awaiting developments in New York, still confident he'll fight Braddock for the title, come June 3; and the Garden is considering legal moves.

"Of course we signed a contract for the Schmeling fight," explained Gould, the champion's pilot, "but the Joe Louis proposition in Chicago meant $500,000 to us. We can't pass up that much tin."

The Garden wants Baer to fight Bob Pastor. Maxie, after coming here with that in mind, walked out of a State Athletic Commission meeting in a huff a week ago and decided to accept an offer for two fights in London. Later the commission granted him a boxing license and sanctioned the Pastor bout, but Baer decided he didn't want any.

The Garden has a second legal worry on its mind—over the Braddock-Louis thing. Promoters of that fight, scheduled for Chicago in late June, already have been warned there's trouble ahead for anyone involved in messing up the Garden's plans for a Braddock-Schmeling go.

SUPPORTERS CONTEND THAT ARMSTRONG SHOULD BE CHAMP

When Henry Armstrong faces Aldo Sordi in Madison Square Garden for 10 rounds on Friday night, March 12, the fight fans are going to see the greatest fighter in the world for his weight and inches, in the opinion of his supporters. "The Black Terry McGovern," "Better fighter than Joe Gans," "Another Joe Wolcott!" Are some of the appellations being affixed to the sensational colored battler from California. On the Pacific Coast, where Armstrong has done most of his fighting, they regard him as the rightful featherweight champion, by virtue of his victory over Mike Belotte, and they are sure that nothing can keep the clever youngster from winning the lightweight crown when he gets a crack at it.

Pastor Would Box Maxie for Title

Bob Pastor, the young heavyweight boxer who made Joe Louis look so amateurish during their recent ten-round bout in Madison Square Garden, returned from a well-earned vacation at Saratoga Springs yesterday afternoon looking the picture of health and champing at the bit to get started again with any of the heavyweights in the country.

"I will fight any man in the world," said Bob to a group of admirers on his arrival, "and I think that I have earned the right for a chance at the heavyweight championship. I think my showing against that Joe Louis established my rightful claim to a crack at the championship of the world. Also, I think that it is pretty near time that a native New Yorker be given some consideration."

"Personally, I think that the boxing commission should vacate Braddock's title, if he refuses to meet his logical opponents and ignores his contractual obligations. Furthermore, I think that the boxing commission should delegate Max Schmeling and myself to fight for the heavyweight championship of the world. That might be the solution to the tangled situation."

"I have grown bigger since my battle with Louis and have taken on fifteen pounds during my vacation. I feel better than at any time in my life and would welcome a fight for the title."

Church Basketball League to Continue

The Board of Managers of the Church Basketball League voted to continue the second half of the league schedule for three weeks at a loop meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. The winner of the second half is to meet the Redeemers, first half champion, in a playoff at the end of the season for the league championship. The second half title lies between the Port Ewen, Redeemer, Clinton Avenue and St. Mary's fives. Each of these clubs has a chance to cop last half honors.

The schedule for the remainder of the second half is as follows:

Coming Up

Budge Favored in Tennis Race, Washington to Capture Regatta

New York, March 4 (AP)—The only thing red-headed Don Budge and the University of Washington's varsity crew have in common is that they are expected to mop up the competition, from west to east, in this year's sporting soiree.

They are the nearest to unanimous choices in a poll of the country's leading sports editors, taken by the Associated Press for a consensus forecast on 1937 events.

Exactly 42 out of 46 experts, representative of all shades of athletic thought, selected Budge to consolidate his No. 1 ranking this year by capturing the United States tennis championship. Taking to the water, but keeping afloat, 40 out of 44 named Washington to repeat in the four-mile varsity classic at Poughkeepsie.

Otherwise, on amateur fronts, sports editors pick the United States to regain the Davis Cup, international tennis trophy; Harold S. Vanderbilt's Ranger to turn back the America's Cup challenge of Endeavor II in yachting; Johnny Goodman to displace Johnny Fischer as national amateur golf king, and Helen Jacobs to oust blond Alice Marble from the Women's national tennis heights.

Bad Year For Champs
Sharp divisions of opinion reflected the uncertainty with which the outcome is regarded at several major points. Taken as a whole, the experts believe 1937 will be a bad year for champions. Two exceptions involve the events to be conducted on tidal waters, where Vanderbilt and Washington are the choices to repeat. This follows the trend on the professional side, where the balloting reported yesterday showed the New York Yankees, in the American League, to be the only favorite among titleholders.

Only three out of 47 sports editors named England as likely to retain the Davis Cup without Fred Perry. It may be patriotic enthusiasm, but the U. S. A. is a thin choice over Germany, 17 to 16. Australia beat the United States last year, but received only ten votes. One long-shot player selected France. Budge, this country's main Davis Cup hope, ran off with the balloting on the next singles champion. The Californian collected 42 out of 46 votes. Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, German ace, received two votes; Atlanta's Bryan (Bills) Grant, one. Fred Perry won the U. S. title last year, but since has turned professional.

Favor Helen Jacobs
Thirty-three out of 46 who expressed views on women's tennis believe Helen Jacobs will regain the crown she lost to Alice Marble last year. The remaining 13 named fair Alice to repeat.

Goodman tops Fischer, the defending champion, for the national amateur golf championship, by the close margin of 17 to 16. Walter Emery of Oklahoma, runner-up to Lawson Little two years ago, and Seattle's Scotty Campbell, received three votes each. On the theory that anything can happen, Harry Givan, Charles Yates, George Dunlap and Gus Moreland each emerged with one backer. The America's Cup voting: Ranger, now yacht being built by Vanderbilt, skipper of the last two successful defenders, 25; Endeavor II, T. O. M. Sopwith's new British challenger, 19.

Poughkeepsie regatta race—Washington 10, California 3, Navy 1.

Toronto—Sammy Luftspring, 146, Toronto, knocked out Eddie Dempsey, 147, Syracuse, N. Y. (6); Frankie Genovese, 145, Toronto, knocked out Al Triano, 146, Rochester, N. Y.

Ellenville Plays Kingston At Auditorium Friday

Ellenville High School makes its yearly invasion of the county seat when it clashes with Kingston's Maroon and White court machine in the municipal auditorium at 8:15 Friday evening. The southern Ulster brigade will clash with the Klammen in a DUSO league struggle in an attempt to notch its initial league victory tomorrow night. Coach Clark's hapless warriors have captured but one of its last 12 starts and has incurred nine successive league losses. The villagers are reposing in the cellar position of the loop and have yet to conquer one of their league opponents. Kingston will be making its second start of the week, having encountered Middletown Tuesday, as it seeks its 10th DUSO conquest.

Ellenville throw an awful scare into the rampaging Klammen in the first contest at the new south Ulster gym by putting up an inspired battle before being defeated by a 34-41 margin. The villagers actually led with three minutes to go and only a great counter rally by Charlie Bock enabled the Maroon to win. The Klammen finally wilted in the closing minutes after being on the verge of springing the greatest upset in league history. Ellenville outplayed the locals in the last half and Kingston emerged a thoroughly scared outfit. With the vision of their narrow escape before them, the Klammen will take no chances and a hard, fast battle is expected.

Other Games

Port Jervis engages Newburgh at the hilly city court and Liberty travels across the foothills to battle Monticello on the Monties' new gym in the other DUSO clashes of Friday night's slate. Liberty, Port and Monticello will be making their second start of the week, having played league games on Wednesday. Newburgh is holding down second place in the league standings and should take Port over again in a close contest. Liberty's tall basket array should conquer the Monties in another interesting league clash. With the DUSO League entering its final phases, the combatants will battle strenuously to improve their position in the final league standings. Newburgh appears to have clear title to second place but the other positions are wide open.

Cheerful Breakfast Nook Should Overlook Garden

This Louisville home offers an attractive example of the small house. The outside is simply handled with white painted brick and dark shutters. The front door opens directly into the living room, but the covered porch prevents the transition from being too abrupt. In addition to the sizable dining room a breakfast nook overlooks the rear garden. The staircase is cleverly arranged with a small landing, and is accessible to the rear service door. Three large bedrooms, a bath and five closets are found upstairs.

Architect J. Hayward Earhart designed this home which cost $4,355. This plan was selected by the Architectural Forum, 135 East 42nd street, New York, N. Y.

Hillig Would Have Aeronautics Head, State Commission

Albany, March 4 (Special)—Assemblyman Otto Hillig, Democrat of Liberty, Sullivan county, who flew the Atlantic in 1931 in his plane, the Liberty, to gain fame and the honor of knighthood from King Christian of Denmark, has introduced in the Legislature a measure regulating aeronautics in the state.

The bill, which was referred to the Assembly Aviation Committee, of which Assemblyman Hillig is a member, sets up a commission of five members to be appointed by the governor with the consent of the Senate, to be known as the New York State Aeronautics Commission. In addition, a state supervisor of aeronautics is to be appointed by the governor at a salary not to exceed $3,500 annually. The supervisor will serve for a term of one year, or until his successor is appointed, and shall discharge the duties assigned him by the commission, which shall serve without compensation.

It shall be the duty of the commission to conduct hearings on all matters concerning aviation, to advise the Legislature as to laws of benefit to the industry, and to assist the state police in enforcing any laws regulating aeronautics, which may be enacted.

Under the measure, the commission would commence its existence April 1, 1938, with one member to serve for one year, one for two years, one for three years, one for four, and another for five years. Thereafter, each appointment would be for a five-year term. The qualifications set forth in the measure for the appointment of the supervisor's position, requires appointees to have a Department of Commerce transport pilot's license, or a current commerce department license and 2,500 hours' certified flying to their credit. The supervisor must also have been actively engaged in aviation as his major occupation for at least three of the five years immediately preceding his appointment.

Assemblyman Hillig, who has stated it was his interest in aviation which prompted him to accept the Democratic Assembly nomination this year, also believes that New York State should embark on a comprehensive program for development of airports and radio-beacon airways similar to that which has made Florida one of the best-mapped states in the country. Legislation on this matter, however, has not yet been perfected, Hillig added.

British Labor Demands
London, March 4 (U.P.).—British labor leaders, it was learned authoritatively today, plan to take advantage of the nation's vast rearmament program and accompanying industrial boom to demand higher wages and a five-day week. The opening move of what may become a wide-spread strike, endangering the government's war defense plan, was believed to have been made by skilled workers at the Rolls Royce Aircraft Engine Works at Derby.
